DESCRIPTION

Park Towers, thoughtfully reimagined. This 2,836-square-foot residence pairs clean architectural lines with sweeping city views from a wraparound terrace. The interiors unfold with quiet confidence—Fleetwood sliding doors, white oak floors, and a honed black limestone fireplace imported from Italy anchor the space. The result is both tailored and effortless, equally suited for intimate evenings or larger-scale entertaining. The kitchen is a study in precision, featuring a Poggenpohl design outfitted with Gaggenau appliances—where form and performance are equally considered. Technology is fully integrated yet unobtrusive, with a Savant home system, Lutron lighting, automated shades, and whole-home audio creating a seamless living experience. Even the details are elevated, with Bocci outlets and a custom Porro glass cabinet and wall installation adding a subtle layer of design intention throughout. The primary suite is composed and restorative, featuring heated floors, integrated shower audio, and chromotherapy lighting. Custom elements continue throughout, including Poliform closets and Dornbracht fixtures —bringing a level of precision and restraint that defines the residence from start to finish.
